

An aerial photograph of a residential neighborhood. A house is outlined in black and labeled with the number '1470'. The house has a rectangular main body and a smaller rectangular section attached to its top side. To the right of the house, there is a large, irregularly shaped area with a cross-hatched pattern, possibly a field or a large garden. The surrounding area shows other houses and streets, though they are less distinct. The image is oriented horizontally, but the house and the hatched area are rotated 90 degrees clockwise relative to the image's frame.
